R. P. I. WINS TRACK MEET 63 1-3–62 2-3

Scant Margin Deciding Factor in Varsity Meet Saturday

CAPTAIN ROBINSON STARS

Wins Three Firsts and Is High Point Man---Mile Run a Feature

The scant margin of two thirds of a point was the deciding factor in the victory of the R. P. I. track team over Middlebury at Porter Field last Saturday. The meet was one of the closest that has ever been seen at Middlebury, and recalls last year's contest with the same team, which finally secured a two point lead over the Blue and White. Perhaps the feature event of the day was the two mile run, in which Cole of Middlebury set a hot pace from the start. At the end of seven and a half laps Clark of Rennselaer and Cole were jockeying for first place, and each passed the other twice in a hundred yards, but Cole had the advantage and jumped into first place for a win in the last twenty yards. Robinson and Peck were a fast combination, taking first and second places respectively in both hurdle events. Honors in the pole vault went easily to the visitors, Trow clearing the bar at better than 11 feet. Darby and Robinson ran away with the 100 yard dash, Darby winning in the fast time of 10 1-5 seconds. Potratz cleaned up first place in both the hammer throw and discus, and Robinson took the broad jump for us at 21 feet 7 inches.

Point splitting was the feature of the high jump, Morgan of R. P. I. winning the event at 5 feet 2 inches, Cook of Middlebury taking second place, and Hodgkins of R. P. I. and Baldwin and Lockwood of Middlebury dividing the lone point that is granted for third place.

Captain Robinson was the individual high point winner of the day, having three firsts and a second to his credit. Captain Shea and Morgan of the Red and White team come next on the list, with 12 points each, closely followed by Potratz with 10 points and Darby with 9.

'VARSITY WINS TWO ON FIRST TRIP

R. P. I. Victim 6-1 in Fast Game at Troy Saturday

"IKE" HULIHAN INVINCIBLE

Allows But One Hit---N. Y. State Beaten 16-9

The results of the first two out-of-town 'Varsity baseball games show Middlebury a double victor, 16-9 over Albany Teachers' College Friday and 6-1 over Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute Saturday. The team showed great improvement over its previous showing in the Holy Cross game Thursday and played fast ball in both games though the contest at Troy was by far the better game of the two.

Hulihan Holds R. P. I. to One Hit

One of the most incouraging features of the trip was the comeback of "Ike" Hulihan, Middlebury's star left-hander who pitched a masterful game. He was practically invincible, allowing but one hit and that a scratch of the closest sort, and striking out a total of 11 men. In contrast to his wildness in the Holy Cross game Thursday, his first work-out of the season, Hulihan was very steady and walked only one man.

The team fielded well behind him, making only two errors and contributing some grand stand catches particularly those by Elmer and Timberman in center and left fields.

Hulihan and Elmer also led at the bat, Ike contributing two triples out of three times at bat and scoring three of Middlebury's six runs, and Elmer rapping out three sharp singles out of four chances. Capt. Timberman and Hastings each gathered more than one hit and the team collected a total of twelve safe bingles from the deliveries of Kuknent, the R. P. I. twirler.

The Troy team got its first and only run in the opening inning when Dewey their c. f., and lead off man reached first on an error by Whitmore, stole second, and scored on Wright's scratch hit to the infield.

Middlebury collected one run in her half of the first when Gallagher hit for a triple and scored on a passed ball. In the third she scored two more when Stockwell who was hit by a pitched ball and Hulihan knocked out his first triple. The Blue team forced over two more tallies in the fifth and another in the seventh although these first two innings were enough to win the game.

INTERSCHOLASTICS HERE FRI. AND SAT.

Twelve Schools Enter Total of Over Hundred Men in Prep. School Track and Field Meet

Present indications are that Middlebury on Friday and Saturday mornings of this week will witness its most successful Interscholastic Meet since the inauguration of the contest as an annual feature of Junior Week in 1918. According to a statement issued by Manager Lee, one hundred and five men representing the following twelve schools will compete for the trophies, cups, and medals to be awarded the winners. Teams have been entered from Black River Academy, Brattleboro High School, Bristol High School, Middlebury High School, Pittsford High School, Proctor High School, Rutland High School, St. Johnsbury Academy, St. Peter's School of Rutland, Troy Conference Academy, Waitsfield High School and Woodstock High School. There are a number of newcomers in this list, chief of which is Brattleboro, which decisively defeated the strong Rutland team at the Interscholastics at Burlington last year. The competition between these two schools will be exceptionally keen, the Rutland team having won the championship trophy two years in succession.

As in past years, the sub-freshmen will be housed in Hepburn Hall and the fraternity houses, and will be the guests of the Junior class at all of the events of the week. The college men have been requested to save the fifth dance at the Prom for the visitors, and special arrangements have been made for their accommodation at the Glee Club concert and Junior Play.

Speaking Contest Heads Three-Day Program---Prom, Play and Concert Other Attractions of Coming Week

CLASSES END TOMORROW

Twelve High Schools Are Entered in Interscholastic Meet Fri. and Sat.---Baseball Game For Each Afternoon

With every advance indication forecasting one of the most successful programs in the history of the college, Middlebury's 1921 Junior Week will be ushered in this evening at eight o'clock with the Parker Prize Speaking Contests in Mead Memorial Chapel. Although only a small proportion of the hundred or more guests have yet arrived members of the Junior Week Committee are confident that the greatly increased accommodations which they have provided will be no more than adequate for the record-breaking throng of sub-freshmen and other visitors who will be entertained on the Hill to-morrow and the two succeeding nights.

Comprehensive Program

In planning the three-day schedule the committee has omitted none of the attractive features which have contributed to the success of similar occasions in past years. The 'Varsity baseball, returning from its victorious southern trip, will play three games on Porter Field, the first, on Thursday afternoon, with University of Vermont. The evenings events, including to-night's speaking contest, the concert of the combined Musical Clubs to-morrow evening in the Town Hall, and the Prom and Junior Play, "The Private Secretary", on Friday and Saturday, will compare favorably with any former offerings of their nature. Practically every ticket for each of the evening attractions has been taken.

Many Arrive To-morrow

A number of the Junior Week guests have already arrived but their numbers will be materially increased by those arriving on the afternoon trains to-morrow. Classes will end for the week to-morrow at twelve-thirty, the next regular college function being the Vesper service at five o'clock Sunday afternoon. About fifty seats have been reserved for sub-freshmen for the Musical Clubs concert Thursday night and special dances have been designated for their entertainment at the Prom on Friday evening. They will also be admitted without charge to each of the three baseball games.

The total registration in the Third Interscholastic Track Meet is considerably over one hundred, or about double that of last year. The roster of schools represented includes about one dozen institutions, several of whom are being represented for the first time. The College plans to accommodate most of the guests in Hepburn and Starr dormitories but others are to be entertained in fraternity houses. The award of prizes will be made Saturday morning on Porter Field following the completion of the finals.

On Friday afternoon after the ball game the annual Rope Pull of the freshman and sophomore classes will take place on the campus in the rear of Old Chapel.

Junior Week

With the official opening of Junior Week this evening, the college enters upon a most significant period and one which has more far-reaching possibilities than almost any other during the year. For three days Middlebury will throw open its doors to preparatory and high school students, in a series of athletic and social events toward whose success the people involved have been devoting their best efforts. From the moment of the opening speech this evening till that of the final one on Saturday when the curtain goes down on the last act of the Junior play, there is every indication of as interesting and varied a program as any preceding Junior Week has brought forth. It cannot but succeed in pleasing both Middlebury men and women and the visitors for whose interest it was primarily instituted.

The attainment of this purpose, however, does not rest alone on the persons apparently most directly involved, but depends on the cooperation and interest of every individual on the campus. The men are coming here that they may gain a more definite knowledge of Middlebury, her equipment, social life, athletics, and, above all, her ideals, which become most apparent through the sort of spirit which is shown by her undergraduates. The unusually beautiful surroundings of Middlebury cannot fail to appeal to even the most uninterested observer, but after all it is the direct associations with the college people themselves which will make the greatest impression. When it is taken into consideration that these men form a representative body and that they will carry back to their schools the ideas which they receive here, it is evident what a powerful force this impression may exert, whether to the detriment or advancement of Middlebury College. Does it not seem a personal responsibility for each one of us to see that it is not toward the detriment of our Alma Mater that we are working?

A Good Start

That the Middlebury campus is one of the most beautiful and inspiring in the country, is the almost universal testimony of visitors on the hill. Comprising some 244 acres and admirably situated on high lands in the rich Otter Creek valley, it commands a surpassing mountain view to the high snow-capped Adirondacks across Lake Champlain in the west and in the east a wide restful sweep of the Green Mountains, including sections of the 30,000 acre Battell bequest of virgin forest land. The older buildings, Old Chapel, Painter, and Starr Halls are gems of early colonial architecture and the recent structures are splendidly appointed and proportioned college buildings.

But because Middlebury is blessed with natural beauties and handsome structures, there must not be self satisfaction and neglect of her advantages. Rather there must be greater effort to further enhance the grandeur of her setting, and for this reason, the recent action of the administration in authorizing the execution of quite extensive landscape gardening, is deserving of the very highest praise and commendation. Blue prints of planting plans which were drawn up by an expert shortly after the erection of Hepburn Hall in 1916 and which have received little attention since then, have lately been brought forth and with these as a basis, work is progressing rapidly.

However, all this and successive administrations can do is at best dependent upon student and alumni sentiment. There must be cultivated to an ever greater degree that love and appreciation of a beautiful campus, without which any improvements would be merely material gain and of little practical value. Each year must witness new effort to increase the grandeur of the natural endowment of the college and this can be accomplished only by concerted action by the whole college. The trustees must increase the appropriation for landscape gardening, the administration must push the planting as they have done this past season, and the students must maintain a certain reverence for the campus and its buildings, which will inspire them to the very best care and protection of them. When this harmony of purpose is accorded we may look toward the complete realization of all the fortunate beauty and advantages of the campus.

Rev. Leroy M. Pierce, a graduate of Middlebury College in the class of 1866, died at the home of his sister in Londonderry, Vt., March 21, at the age of 79. Mr. Pierce was born in Olney, Ill., but came to Vermont at an early age. He prepared for college in the schools of Londonderry and Springfield, and graduated from Middlebury in the Class of 1866 and from Andover Theological Seminary in 1869. One feels constrained to admire the painstaking methods of a certain aspirant to the lofty elevation of Chimester. But Alas! Will he never omit practicing in final execution or retrieve each apparent faux-pas with a tardiness of two full measures?

" * * * and the evening was spent in music and singing."

This quote from The Rutland Daily Herald does not concern the College Glee Club, we are forced to admit, but it does exhibit a very nice distinction. We recall the first reportorial attempts of a friend for the same paper. Said he "The band concert was witnessed by several hundred music lovers.

Freshmen will rejoice in the announcement that the old dam which held the pond back of the athletic field and which was destroyed last spring, is to be restored at an early date.

Or E'en An Occasional Salute

The ban on freshman participation in the ancient Scotch game seems a bit ill advised inasmuch as a close inspection reveals the 1924 enthusiasts to have a monopoly on such necessary implements as balls, clubs, rubber tees et cetera. A more timely application for such keen prohibitive zeal and technical ardor would, we believe, be the enforcement of the time honored tradition relating to Who Should and Who Should Not be allowed to dangle their feet from the dizzy heights of our several rest benches.

The Old Order Changeth

Being a clipping from The Undergraduate—April 1885

"The ladies request the students not to call without especial invite as the parlor may not be in order."

It seems passing foolish to ask a man named Doolittle to submit to involuntary service on the tennis courts.

On the same line of reasoning we are not surprised to note the crediting of one Armstrong of R. P. I. with a second and two thirds in the discus, hammer and shot events, respectively, in the official record of Saturday's encounter.

Anything But Gray Helmets

The ordained and officially recognized Police Force, three strong "Count 'Em", made its debut last week, and in plain clothes, we observed.

In sportsmanlike decorum we give the defenders of our collective peace the benefit of a doubt and credit the newly established unit with its first, and not inapt, subterfuge, designed to catch the diminutive miscreants off their guard.

In further promotion of civic weal we suggest the establishment, in the near future, of "A Claiming Station for Infants Lost on the Grounds", similar to those common to certain w. k. metropolitan amusement centers.

All that Middlebury lacks is a boiler works to which the studious might take themselves for greater quiet rather that that afforded by the library.

Spring has brought its results. On a rare day last week a professor, upon receiving a small percentage of Math problems, sagely remarked that "an early spring prophecies an early fall."

COLLEGE PAPER EDITORS MEET IN CONFERENCE

Members of Eastern Intercollegiate News Ass'n Hold Convention

Delegates representing nearly thirty different eastern college publications attended the second annual convention of the Eastern Intercollegiate Newspaper Association held at Columbia University, New York City, Friday and Saturday, May 6 and 7. At this meeting two more papers, The Daily Pennsylvanian (U. of P.) and "The Boston College News" were admitted to membership in the association, thus bringing the total enrollment up to about twenty.

At the business meeting Saturday afternoon Ewald J. J. Smith, Managing Editor of The Cornell Daily Sun was elected to succeed N. McD. McKnight of Columbia as President of the association. A. E. Stevenson of The Princetonian and Irving E. Ferris of The Columbia Spectator were chosen vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively and Ithaca was named as the meeting place for the 1922 convention.

At a banquet to the delegates in the Hotel Astor, Don Carlos Seitz, Managing Editor of The New York World, addressed the conference and spoke on journalism in general and particularly college journalism. He took up the argument started by Thomas A. Edison in his recent denunciation of the value of a college education and said "Mr. Edison expects too much of college students. * * * Mr. Edison apparently has the idea that a man should come from college and know everything but it is really only a period of cultivation. The real education begins afterwards."

Saturday morning was devoted to the annual business meeting at which officers and a meeting place were selected for the coming year and the new applicants were admitted to membership. Plans for Intercollegiate Wireless Service by colleges equipped for such service, were discussed at considerable length and a committee was appointed to report at a later date to President Smith regarding arrangements which could be affected with the U. S. government for such service. The need for further cooperation by all members of the association in regard to interchange of news articles was impressed upon the delegates who were urged to communicate in turn this need for cooperation to the boards which they represent.

The Eastern Intercollegiate Newspaper Association was founded last year with thirteen charter members including The Middlebury Campus. It has served to unify the colleges of the east through their publications and has met with widespread success both in the editorial and business capacities of student newspapers.

The Campus was represented at the convention by K. A. Brautigam, Editor.

Alpha Chi Dance

The annual formal dance of Alpha Zeta of Alpha Chi was held Saturday evening, May 7, at the McCullough Gymnasium. Music was furnished by Fitzpatrick's six-piece orchestra.

The patronesses were Mrs. Bryant, Miss Ross, Mrs. Harrington, Mrs. Mellen, Miss Carrigan, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Jacobs and Mrs. Harriman. The representatives were Emma Schaefer, Pi Beta Phi; Ruth A. Aldrich, Sigma Kappa; Frances L. Wiley, Delta Delta Delta, and Alice A. Ryan. TICKETS FOR JUNIOR PROM COMPLETELY SOLD

Music to be Furnished by Metropolitan Clique—Twenty Dances

The advance sale of tickets to the Junior Prom which will be held in McCullough Gymnasium Friday evening, May 13, at eight o'clock, has been exceptionally rapid, the entire allotment for seventy-five couples having been completely sold out last Monday. These tickets are sold according to class ranking and this may inconvenience the underclassmen though it is expected that the committee will be able to accommodate all those desiring to attend.

The plans for the dance promise that it will be one of the most successful in years. The music will be furnished by The Metropolitan Clique, a seven piece orchestra from Albany, N. Y., and the hall will be attractively and distinctively decorated with the class colors, blue and gold. The dance programs for twenty dances and three extras, are of heavy blue leather and are exceptionally neat in design and workmanship.

The committee in charge of arrangements consists of H. E. Lane, Chairman, K. A. Brautigam, C. W. Crew, H. C. Leach, B. F. Potratz, H. W. Williams, C. C. Baldwin, and the Misses V. D. Gates, M. I. Gaylor, A. S. Jones, M. I. McDonald and E. B. Wright.

FACULTY TO RAISE MONEY FOR CURTAIN

To Present Three Lectures and a Variety Show—Profits to go Toward New Stage Curtain

A Vaudeville Show by members of the faculty and students is to be given Tuesday evening, May 24, in McCullough Gymnasium for the purpose of raising money for the new curtain for the gymnasium stage.

"A Sunny Morning" a one act play by the Quintero brothers will be given by members of the Faculty; "Cupid's Ambush" by Professor Burrage and Lacalle, adapted from a play by Benavente, is to be presented by students; and "If Exams Were Oral" described as a "comical farce by Professor Lacalle, which might become a sad reality (it's up to the Faculty") will round out the program. In this play Professors Cady, Bonney and Macdonald, as an examining board, will place twelve students on the grill. The victims will be Ona M. Ladd, Lillian Derks, Marion Crathern, Janet Taylor, Helen Bolton, Margaret Porter, Leroy R. Bigelow, Gerald H. Cabot, Raymond Noonan, Rowland Shepardson, Charles Baldwin and John Horner.

The Faculty Committee consisting of Professors Lacalle, Burrage and Robinson has arranged, in addition to this vaudeville show, a series of lectures which will be given in the gymnasium, each one illustrated by 100 slides.

On May 18, at 7:00 P. M., Prof. D. L. Robinson will lecture on "The Tourists' Paris and a Peaceful France." On the following evening, May 19, Prof. W. S. Burrage will take as his subject "Following Great Men Through Greece" and on Friday, May 20, "The Spain of Romance and Reality" will be delivered by Prof. J. Moreno-Lacalle.

The subscription charge to the four entertainments is $1.00. Admission to any one of the lectures is 25 cents and to the vaudeville show 50 cents.

COLLEGE MAY RECEIVE $40,000 BY BAILEY WILL

After a controversy lasting a year the will of Cornelia W. Bailey, late of Everett, Mass., was established recently in the Bay State supreme court. By the decision of the court, Middlebury College will receive a fund of about $40,000 after the life estate of the executor, the income of which is to be used for scholarships for deserving boys and girls of the Protestant faith residing in Vermont.

Miss Bailey, when a young woman, became acquainted with an inspiring young man who was struggling to earn his way through college and she was so impressed with his efforts that she made the resolve to become if possible a benefactor to a fund to help such needy cases. Her will expresses the consumation of such a desire and is quite fortunate for Middlebury in that there is an ever increasing need for Vermont scholarship funds.

The college, however, is only a residuary legatee and the receipt of the whole $40,00 is only conditional upon the management of the life estate of the executor.

HOLY CROSS TRIMS MIDDLEBURY 14-0

Hulihan Extremely Wild—Relieved in Fourth by Elmer—Worcester Team Plays Fine Ball

Exhibiting a brand of baseball rarely witnessed in intercollegiate contests the Holy Cross nine administered a decisive defeat over the 'Varsity Thursday afternoon on Porter Field, the score being 14-0. In the first inning, with men on second and third and one out, Middlebury had her one opportunity for scoring only to have it blasted by two successive strike-outs and not once during the remainder of the game was one of her runners able to advance beyond second.

"Ike" Hulihan, pitching his first game of the season, probably never had four worse innings in all his baseball career. His wildness, despite the fact that his tremendous speed and perplexing curves presented an unsolvable riddle to the opposing batsmen, robbed him of any approach to effectiveness. In his four innings on the mound the visitors were credited with seven unearned runs. Elmer relieved him in the fourth but the Blue defense failed to rally and the Holy Cross batsmen were able to hit safely into almost any quarter of the field.

McLoughlin was in the box for Holy Cross during the greater part of the game and his delivery as well as that of Toney, his successor, constituted an enigma to the Blue stick artists. MacGuire knocked a homer into center field and Murphy landed a three-bagger.

RUTH BINGAMIN RECITAL A DISTINCT MUSICAL TREAT

On Wednesday night, May 4th, Miss Ruth Bingamin played a comprehensive and exacting program of pianoforte music to a small but appreciative audience. Miss Bingamin displayed not only an entirely adequate technical equipment, but also an evidently very musical temperament. Her performance of the Bach number was notable for its clarity and ringing tone. The Grieg Variations, difficult as they are, were much appreciated on the part of the audience. The Chopin numbers displayed the real talents of the young woman, and while there was perhaps a little heaviness, nevertheless on the whole, the interpretations were poetic and convincing. Tohnanyi's "Rhapsodie" was delivered with much finesse and aplomb. Perhaps Miss Bingamin's best effort was her renditions of the terrifically difficult Liszt compositions. Their brilliance was noteworthy. Guion's setting of "Turkey in the Straw" was a pleasing muse. It is to be regretted that a large audience did not assemble to hear what was distinctly a musical treat.

PARKER PRIZE CONTEST IN CHAPEL TO-NIGHT

Eight Speeches by Freshmen and Five Musical Numbers on Program

To-night in the Mead Memorial Chapel the Parker Prize Speaking Contest will mark the official opening of Junior Week. There is no admission fee and a cordial invitation is extended to the public as well as to members of the college.

For the first time, so far as is known, in the history of the Parker Prize Speaking Contest, which dates back to 1807, the selections this year are to be original speeches instead of the customary declamations. The number of contestants has been increased from four to eight and the prizes have been increased both in number and in size. Previously the prizes have been $20 and $10. This year there are four prizes: $50, $25, $25, and $20. The contestants have been hard at work for several weeks under the direction of Prof. W. E. Davison, of the Department of English. In addition to the eight speeches, there will be on the program this evening five musical numbers of especial interest. Acting-President Edward D. Collins will preside at the contest. The judges, whose names have not yet been announced, are all from out of town and include a college professor, a well known attorney, and a prominent clergyman. The program as follows, insures an interesting evening's entertainment:

Middlebury 16 N. Y. State 9

The game Friday with N. Y. State Teachers' College at Albany was a slug-fest with Middlebury having considerably the better of the argument. Both Hastings and Johnson were hit hard but Hastings was not called upon to show any great skill in holding the Teachers in hand.

In this game Ross was spiked and had to be replaced by Whitmore which necessitated several changes in the line up. Gallagher took up his position at the keystone sack and Timberman was moved out into left field to take Whitmore's place.

The fourth inning was Middlebury's lucky inning, the team collecting eight runs made by reason of the extremely ragged fielding by the New Yorkers.

The line up:—Middlebury: Stockwell, 2b; P. Ross, ss; Hulihan, rf; Elmer, cf; Timberman, 1b and lf; White, 3b; Mead, c, and rf; Hastings, p; Whitmore lf and ss; Lobo, c.

N. Y. State: Johnson, p; Dabris, 1b; Bliss, 2b; T. Cassavant, 3b; Hathorne, cf; Baker, lf; Sherlock, rf.

1922 KALEIDOSCOPES ALL DELIVERED IN RECORD TIME

The 1922 Kaleidoscope, the Middlebury College Annual published by the Junior Class, has been received from the printers and distribution of the copies subscribed for by undergraduates and the faculty has been completed. All outside orders are rapidly being filled. The arrival of the first shipment from the Tuttle Co., Rutland, on April 29 set a record as the earliest time that the Kaleidoscope has ever been distributed.

The book is bound in blue pebble finish cloth with an attractive cover design embossed in gold. It is dedicated to William W. McGilton, Professor-Emeritus of Chemistry at Middlebury, who has been connected with the college for twenty-seven years. The two most novel features of the annual are the very clever arrangements of local snap shots and the individual cartoons of each member of the junior class, an idea never before employed in The Kaleidoscope. There is an unusually large and clever "Nonsensia" section and all other departments are handled completely and satisfactorily. The illustrations and art work is admirable though the individual photographs are rather too dark.
